MAGTECH INTRODUCES THREE NEW CALIBERS FOR FIRST DEFENSE SERIES

Magtech Ammunition, Inc., a manufacturer and distributor of ammunition products, introduces three new handgun calibers for Magtech First Defense™ personal protection ammunition.

In 2004, Magtech introduced the first three calibers of the Magtech First Defense ammunition series for law enforcement and personal defense: 9mm Luger, 40 S&W, and 45 Auto.

For 2005, Magtech adds three more options to their ultimate personal protection ammunition: 357 Magnum, 38 Special, and 380 Auto.

Magtech First Defense rounds are designed with a 100% copper bullet, unlike other traditional hollow-point ammunition containing a lead core covered by a copper jacket. With this solid copper construction, First Defense bullets have no jacket to split or tear away, ensuring controlled expansion and penetration.

For the past 75 years, Magtech Ammunition has been using the highest quality materials, cutting-edge manufacturing technology and state-of-the-art equipment to provide the shooting industry with exceptional standards for ammunition manufacturing and distribution. Each round is designed and constructed to meet SAAMI and CIP technical specifications for reliability, consistency and safety.
